Current information about our services

In the current epidemic, occupational health care plays a great role in supporting workplaces to maintain their safety and control the coronavirus epidemic. It is also important to continue arranging normal preventive services, services that maintain work ability and sickness-related appointments. We will provide health examination, work ability support, guidance and counselling, medical care and other occupational health care services in accordance with the agreement either as personal or remote appointments on a case-by-case basis. If a certain matter cannot be resolved in a remote appointment, it is safe to arrange a personal appointment as we have taken various precautions to protect the safety of our customers. In order to resolve and treat all problems and diseases in time, employees should be encouraged to contact the occupational health care service provider if they feel worried about their health status, coping or work ability.

We ensure safe distances and sufficient protection
We pay special attention to precautions that reduce the risk of infection at all our clinics. The staff of all our units wear surgical masks. We ensure safe distances through various measures, including fewer chairs in waiting rooms and longer intervals between appointments. The appointment rooms are cleaned after each appointment. The staff of our respiratory tract infection clinics wear personal protective equipment to protect themselves from the coronavirus infection and to ensure the safety of patients as well as occupational safety. The patients of respiratory tract infection clinics are also provided surgical masks.
